THURSDAY, AUGUST 11. 1743.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from France.

Leghorn, July 27.

WE learn from Genoa, that the Ammunition brought thither by the Spaniſh Xebeques are to be tranſported to Corſica till the War is over. We have private Letters here from Madrid, which ſay, that the whole Court is divided into two Factions; the one inclined to conclude a new Alliance, offenſive and defenſive, with the Crown of France; and the other, for making an immediate Peace with Great Britain on the beſt Terms that can be procured, and this without having any Regard to the French Court at all. Our laſt Letters from Corſica are of an extraordinary Nature. Signior Juſtiniani, Commiſſary from the Republick of Genoa, and veſted alſo with full Powers from the Senate, has ſigned a definitive Treaty with the Corſicans, which is to be conſider'd as the Conſtitution of that Country for the future. By this Treaty, a general Amneſty is granted to the whole Iſland; the Inhabitants are declared confederate Subjects of the State of Genoa, and are allowed the following indefeaſible Privileges.

I. That no new Tax ſhall be levied but by the Conſent of the Repreſentatives of the People.

II. That all Poſts, Eccleſiaſtical, Civil, and Military, be filled with Corſicans only.

III. That they ſhall have Deputies conſtantly reſiding at Genoa. Prodigious Rejoicings have been made throughout the whole Iſland upon this Occaſion.

P. S. The State of Genoa having complained to the Regency of Florence, that the famous Baron Theodore had lodged privately with the Parſon of Cuccoli, a little Village in the Neighbourhood of that City, he had Notice given him to retire immediately; which he did, nobody knows whither.

Naples, July 23. Our laſt Letters from Meſſina are very unfavourable. It ſeems the Plague is entirely extinguiſhed in that City, but it ſtill prevails in the Villages; with which the City hath now cut off all Communication. The Phyſicians of Sicily have acquired great Reputation by the Diſcovery of a Specifick which infallibly cures this Plague, and to which, the ſudden Extinction of it is wholly owing. It does them the more Honour, inaſmuch as it was not diſcover'd by Accident, but conſidered and ſettled at a ſolemn Conſultation, after the Diſſection of ſeveral who had died of this Diſtemper.

Baireith, Auguſt 5. We learn from the Camp before Egra, that on the 1ſt of this Month the Gariſon made a very vigorous Sally, with an Intent to cut the Corn which grew under the Cannon of the Place, for the Subſiſtance of the Townſmen, as well as the Gariſon. The Huſſars, Pandours, and Croats, who form the Blockade, hindered them to work all that Day without Interruption, which drew out the next Morning a more conſiderable Detachment; but theſe they intercepted, and either killed, or made Priſoners, every Man of them. Among the latter there are ſeveral Officers, who have been conducted to the Auſtrian Head Quarters. One of the Captains was ſent back by the Count de Kollowrath, to tell the Governor, that if he preſumed to turn one of the Inhabitants out, or to burn ſo much as a Stable belonging to the Town, he would hang up him, and all his Garriſon; and would begin with the 130 that were already in his Hands.

Ratisbon, Auguſt 8. Our Regency ſent, the Day before Yeſterday, a Deputation to Baron Palm, the Auſtrian Miniſter, in order to repreſent to him the Inconveniencies reſulting from keeping ſo numerous a Body of Irregular Troops in the Neighbourhood of this City, to watch about 600 French who are ſtill here; and that after immediately diſpatched a Courier with theſe Repreſentations to Vienna. On the 5th of this Month there arrived in our Neighbourhood about 1600 French Priſoners, who were taken in M. Broglio's Retreat, and which are now going to Hungary. This very Night the Diſpatches are to be open'd before Ingoldſtadt. The Troops that form that Siege are compoſed of 10,000 Regular Troops, and 9000 Huſſars, Croats, and Pandours. The Duke of Straubingen pay 30,000 Florins a Month, by way of Contribution, to the Auſtrians, who have reduced the Number of Civil Officers throughout all Ba-

Ulm, Aug. 9. The French, who had quitted their Quarters in this Neighbourhood a Fortnight ago, returned hither on the 4th of this Month, and this City now ſwarms with their Troops more than ever. M. Broglio arrived here on the 5th, and the Prince of Conti is expected To-morrow. It is ſaid that their Head-Quarters will be eſtabliſhed here, from whence they make Detachments daily towards Worms and other Places, in order to watch the Motions of the Allies. Some Parties of the latter have advanced to Oppenheim, and even to Rockenhauſen, where they have beaten the French from their Poſts, and carried off a conſiderable Quantity of Proviſions. All the little Places between this City and Worms are crammed with the French, who poſt Centinels in all the Steeples, to obſerve what paſſes round about. If the Army aſſembles in our Neighbourhood, and continues here for any Time, Proviſions muſt grow very dear, ſince the Fields are already cover'd with Tents, and all the ſtanding Corn trod under Foot. On the 3d Inſtant our Farmers were obliged, by an Order from M. Noailles, to cut down all their Oats, becauſe the Gendarmes were to encamp in the Fields where it grew; but as the Corn was quite Green, it will be of little or no Uſe to the Proprietors. It is given out here, that Prince Charles of Lorrain has been, for ſome Days, in full March with his Army for the Briſgaw; but this News does not ſeem to make any great Impreſſion on M. Noailles; and the French give out, that they have, in thoſe Parts, an Army ſufficient to defeat any Attempt he is able to make on that Side. In the mean time this is certain, That his Highneſs receives continual Reinforcements from Bavaria, particularly 4000 Croats and Pandours, who were ſeen marching by one of the French Spies Yeſterday. The Inhabitants of Alſace are under terrible Apprehenſions; and, ſince they have been forbid to carry any more of their Effects to Strasburgh, are retiring, in great Numbers, with their Goods, into Switzerland.

Extract from the Paris Alamain.

Paris, Auguſt 16. 'There arrived ſome Days ago at 'Verſailles a Courier from the Army of M. Noailles. He 'was introduced the very Moment he arrived to the 'King, who was then in cloſe Conference with M. A'melot; but, upon receiving the Diſpatches brought by 'this Courier, he quitted what he was about, called a 'Council of State immediately, and diſpatched the Cou'rier back in the ſpace of four Hours.

'A Report prevails here ſtrongly, that a Body of Au'ſtrian Huſſars have actually paſſed the Rhine in the 'Neighbourhood of Briſac, and have done a great deal 'of Miſchief thereabouts.

Extract of a Letter from Spire, dated Auguſt 8.

"We are ſtill very uncertain as to the Route the Eng"liſh will take; if they ſhould go down towards Op"penheim, we ſhall wait for them here, in order to "hinder their Junction with Prince Charles; and if they "march towards the Moſelle, we ſhall endeavour to get "before them.

"The Army of Prince Charles is on the other Side "of the Rhine, about the Height of Fort Lewis. We "have abundance of ſtrong Poſts in that Neighbour"hood, and the Count de Saxe is at Hand, with all his "Forces, to cover the Paſſes on the Rhine which may "be attempted with the greateſt Eaſe.

'They write from Chambery, that the Army of the 'Infant Don Philip occupies at preſent four different 'Camps; of theſe the moſt conſiderable is at Montme'lian, which that Prince has order'd to be ſtrongly for'tified; the Second at Faucines, the Third at St. John 'de Morienne, the Fourth in the Tarentaiſe; that all 'theſe Troops taken together, amount to about 45,000 'Men, who are daily reinforced by ſmall Bodies from 'Spain. It is likewiſe ſaid, that Part of our Troops now 'in Provence are ſpeedily to defile towards Savoy, ſo 'that it cannot be long before we hear of the Progreſs 'of his Royal Highneſs's Arms in Piedmont.

'It is ſtill currently reported here, that M. Maillebois 'is ſhortly to take upon him the Command of 25,000 'Men, who are to act in Savoy; but how confidently 'ſoever this News may be aſſerted, it ſtands in very 'great Need of Confirmation.

'The laſt Letters from Genoa, of the 31ſt of laſt 'Month, acquaint us, that the Plague at Meſſina had de'ſtroyed, by the 29th of July, 22,000 Perſons, the 'greateſt Part of whoſe Bodies lay unburied about the 'Streets. Conſiderable Quantities of Proviſions have 'been ſent to ſuch as ſtill ſurvive in that City; and a 'Number of Criminals, capitally convicted, have been 'ſent thither likewiſe, in order to clean the Streets.'

SCOTLAND.

Edinburgh, Aug. 2. A few Days ago there happen'd a Diſpute at a Dancing-School, between an Officer of the Army and a Private Gentleman, which, at laſt, grew ſo warm, that it ended in a mutual Challenge. The Officer, at the Time appointed, appeared alone on the Field of Battle, and his Enemy declin'd the Combat. He was victorious for a-while, becauſe he had nobody to diſpute the Victory with him. This lucky Accident made him highly pleaſed with his own Courage, and his Rival's Cowardice, both which he proclaimed wherever he went. But a little after (ſuch is the Vanity of human Glory!) he had the Misfortune to be conquer'd by him, not with Arms of Steel, but of Fleſh; not in a Corner, but in a Publick Place: And, what is the moſt ſhameful, before a Company of Ladies, who were amazed at his Humility, in neither returning the Blows he receiv'd, nor drawing his Sword like a Man of Honour.

Laſt Week ſeveral Fiſhing-boats from Anſtruther, and other Ports in Fife, catch'd each, in one Day, 12,000 Herrings.

Yeſterday came on the Trial of Edward Wallace, alias Robertſon, charged with robbing the Hawick Poſt; when he confeſs'd he took Money from him, but denied that he robbed him. After learned Pleadings on both Sides, the Court adjourned to Saturday, at Nine in the Morning, when the Proof againſt the Pannel is to be led.

LONDON.

Private Letters from Conſtantinople, by the Way of Venice, ſay, that there has happen'd lately a total Revolution in the Turkiſh Miniſtry; but that, at the time thoſe Letters came away, it was not thought ſafe to give us any further Particulars.

The Reaſon that the Auſtrians are ſo deſirous of making themſelves Maſters of Ingoldſtadt, is, becauſe the fine Train of heavy Artillery which was intended for the Siege of Vienna, is laid up in that City.

They write from Nuremberg, that the Regiment of Beleſinay Huſſars, conſiſting of 1150 Men, excellently well mounted, are in full March to join the Army of the Allies, where they are to make Part of the Corps commanded by Major-General Mentzel.

Some Advices from Spire ſay, that juſt as the Poſt ſet out, M. Noailles received a Courier with the unwelcome News that Baron Trenck, with 8000 Irregular Troops, had actually broke into Alſace, and begun to levy Contributions.

Yeſterday Morning Mr. Badcock, an eminent Mercer, died ſuddenly at his Houſe on Ludgate Hill.

Yeſterday Abraham Whitehead was committed to Newgate by Sir Joſeph Hankey, for ſtealing divers Goods out of the Houſe of John Gyles, at the Flying Horſe in Blackman-ſtreet, Southwark.

Laſt Tueſday the Right Hon. the Lord Chancellor held a Gift Seal, when a Diſpenſation paſs'd to enable Eyre Whalley, M. A. Chaplain to the Earl of Suſſex, to hold the Rectory of Ecton in the County of Northampton, and Dioceſe of Peterborough, together with the Rectory of Cognighs, or Cocknoe, in the ſaid County, and Dioceſe aforeſaid.

The ſame Day a Grant paſs'd the Great Seal to John Oldnall, Gent. of the Office of one of the Four Meſſengers of his Majeſty's Receipt of the Exchequer, in the room of Thomas Lowther, Gent. who has reſign'd.

The ſame Day a new Commiſſion of the Peace paſs'd for the County of Wilts.

Laſt Monday the Lady of the Right Hon. the Lord Viſcount Falmouth was deliver'd of a dead Child.

Laſt Friday his Majeſty's Plate of 100 Guineas was run for on Lewes Downs in Suſſex, and won by a Horſe belonging to his Grace the Duke of Somerſet.

The State-Lottery-Office at Charing-Croſs, kept by Mr. Wilſon, directly behind the King on Horſeback, having been ſo remarkable theſe thirteen Years paſt, for the many and valuable Prizes there ſold, ſhar'd, or regiſter'd, renders it needleſs at this time to mention more than two, amongſt others, tranſacted at that Place in the laſt Bridge-Lottery, viz. No. 51047 and 22883, one a Prize of 5000 l. and the other of 10000 l. Which uncommon and continued Succeſs, together with the Care and Fidelity there to be depended on, occaſions an extraordinary Demand at that Office for Tickets, Shares, and Chances of Tickets, ſeveral People chuſing, even tho' they happen to have already purchas'd at other Places, to regiſter them with him. We hear that Schemes, adorn'd with a curious emblematical Frontiſpiece, are given gratis to his Cuſtomers.

By a late LORD MAYOR of London.

'A Pamphlet hath been twice publiſh'd within this Twelvemonth, call'd A Preſent for an Apprentice; which, on Account of its unpromiſing Title, I don't queſtion but many others as well as myſelf, have overlook'd. Seemingly calculated for low and unexperienc'd Life, it excited no Curioſity in thoſe above that Level. 'Twas therefore, with not a little Surprize, that, on dipping into it, I found ſuch a Syſtem of Morality and Oeconomy as Perſons of all Ranks might improve by, delivered in ſuch a Style, as the moſt accompliſh'd Readers might be delighted with: In ſhort, a Work, which, if univerſally known, would be an univerſal Good, as containing all the Requiſites to render Mankind, honeſt, wiſe, ſociable, and virtuous.'

The Learned BOERHAAVE, treating on this Subject, in theſe Words:

'It is juſtly eſteemed for its Antipeſtilential Virtues, both 'as a Preſervative from the firſt Attack of the Plague, and 'the Cure thereof after it has ſeized the Perſon. Several 'took Two Spoonfuls of it every Morning, before he viſited 'his Patients, in a General Plague-Seaſon, and all along remained perfectly free from every Symptom of the Diſtemper, 'but if ever he happened to miſs the Doſe, before he ventured 'abroad, he was preſently ſeized with a Pain in his Head. 'And DIEMERBROECK appears to have given it with great 'Succeſs in that violent Plague of Nimeguen, wherein, as 'Phyſician, he was diligently employ'd.'
